

ABSTRACT

The invention relates to a data acquisition system for collecting and reporting production data from at least one production well. The system includes a data collection device operatively connected to one or more production data sensors on a production well, data collection device for storing and reporting production data to a computer.

09901894-071101